Dr. Finkelson's book accomplishes several things. First, it provides information that is ONLY available from due diligence on the ground in China, namely, the names and contact information of agents that secure EB5 interested parties, and the regional centers they typically work with. It also describes the cultural distinctions that make business with China very different from what you may be used to. Do not underestimate how important this is. Further and perhaps just as important, this book provides the guidance and insights that are indispensable to navigate all of it without incident, helping you anticipate problems before they manifest themselves.

Putting aside the practice guidance for a moment, the time and expense needed to gather just the factual data would run into hundreds of hours. Combine this with practice guidance and you have a resource that gives you a fighting chance to compete in this HIGHLY competitive arena. If you are just starting to dip your toe in the water of EB-5 work, or you are an experienced EB-5 practitioner there is certainly something in this book that can help you.

Sincerely,

Lex Mirianthopoulos, Esq
